

Already, two of the TV stations and some radio stations run the same news broadcast. To get a substantially different version of the news on television, you have to be rich enough to pay for cable. It is outrageous that the right wing media, such as Murdoch are allowed to buy up alternative sources of news. Please outlaw a news source from owning more than one non-cable station in a small or medium sized market. Above all, require that there always be local reporters manning the phones twenty four hours a day at every TV station with a sizable market.
